

【感想】 I would like to thank Kyodokai as an education funding support foundation for supporting me a fund to attend The 10th International Conference on City Logistics 2017 held in Thailand. The conference was attended by 90 experts on city logistics all over the world. It was a great opportunity for me to present and share my research entitled Multi-agent Simulation using Adaptive Dynamic Programming for Evaluating City Logistics Policy of Urban Consolidation Centers. I got valuable comments from other presenters and participants for developing my research in the future.
